A Collaborative Management Approach Driven by Specialized Environmental Counsel

When a claim is reported, our claim evaluation and strategy process begins immediately in coordination with our insureds. Each claim is assigned to an experienced Sompo Claims Counsel with a goal of delivering proactive solutions. After the initial fact gathering, we focus on the early aggressive pursuit of all tender opportunities and communicate with our business partners to address concerns regarding contracts, safety or other issues identified through the claim management process.

- Close collaboration with the client, broker, and claims counsel as required in the initial fact gathering, evaluating coverage, liability and damages and identifying resolution opportunities
- Proactive claims management in all phases, from coordinating each investigation, issuing coverage letters, attending mediations, providing settlement authorizations and leading claim reviews

- Frequent communication between claim and underwriting teams to review claims, secure claim-specific information, and address concerns regarding contractual or other issues identified through the claim handling process
- Sompo's in-house Claims Counsel, along with our outside counsel, provide deep industry expertise to help clients navigate complex environmental claims
- Carefully selected and vetted panel counsel with national footprint provide access to attorneys with industry expertise in Professional, Construction and Environmental law who provide feedback and advice when a situation arises
